

THE CHRISTMAS STORY WILL COME ALIVE AT GARDEN SPOT VILLAGE

The public is invited to a live nativity scene in the chapel on Dec. 14

NEW HOLLAND, Pa. — Nov. 25, 2011 — The Garden Spot Village retirement community at 433 S. Kinzer Ave. is bringing the Christmas story to life with a live nativity scene in its chapel on Wed., Dec. 14. In addition to costumed residents, staff members and their families portraying the biblical scene, the program will also feature the Village Voices Choir performing favorite Christmas hymns and carols.

“Our live nativity has become a Christmas tradition in New Holland,” said Colleen Musselman, director of life enrichment at Garden Spot Village. “We draw many visitors from the surrounding community. Our model train room open house on Saturdays has also become a holiday favorite.”

The live nativity began with a single performance in 2004 and expanded to two performances in 2005 and each year since.

This year, the 7 p.m. performance is open to the general public, family and friends. A 2 p.m. performance is reserved for Garden Spot Village residents. Each performance runs not more than an hour, and the program is free.
